Watershed Planning in Edmonton: An Update
Thursday, March 4, 2010

The North Saskatchewan Watershed Alliance (NSWA) and the Alberta Low-Impact Development Partnership (ALIDP) are two organizations with a similar purpose and response to growth pressures in Edmonton and Alberta. The NSWA aims to protect and improve water quality and ecosystem functioning in the North Saskatchewan River watershed. The ALIDP focuses on education and outreach to enable governments and stakeholders to develop and implement low impact development initiatives and protect the natural environment.

Dr. Lyndon Gyurek, Treasurer of the ALIDP, and David Trew, Executive Director of the NSWA, will be co-presenting at this event. Each will be discussing current city environmental planning initiatives involving watershed and low-impact design. Don't miss an exciting presentation on this timely topic!
